Meet Your Adviser – 8 Questions

Q1 – Why did you go into the financial services profession?

The financial services profession provided a balance between technical knowledge, continuing academic development and the ability to help real people live a more fulfilling life, knowing that they had the financial resources to meet their lifestyle goals.

I love the ongoing research and technical aspects of my role, building financial plans and developing ongoing strategies. However, the human interaction provides clarity and purpose that would not be there in a purely academic, research based role.

Q2 – What do you love most about your career?

It is such a dynamic profession which crosses over so many fields. There are investment decisions, legislative, regulatory and legal aspects as well as personal & behavioural characteristics from psychology and massive amounts of data analytics.

You take all of these aspects and then provide a bespoke financial plan to a real person with real world implications. The personal responsibility that we have for our client's financial wellbeing drives home these elements in a perfect professional package.

The ongoing education and research provides that excitement of always learning something new.

Q3 – Who inspires you?

Everyone and no one. I couldn't pick one person who inspires me, rather I like to take the most impressive behaviours of people and try to apply them to my life.

Q4 – If you could spend a week anywhere in the world, where would it be?

Anywhere it had recently snowed at night with blue sky in the day.

Q5 – What's your favourite way to relax?

Going to the gym is always relaxing, post workout anyway however life and work often gets in the way. I am happy in the kitchen cooking and I can always lose time in a good movie.

Q6 - What's your favourite restaurant?

Somewhere that sells a really good long lunch!

Q8 – Where are you likely to bump into Peter outside of work?

Most likely at home still working, Its been a great year, but very long. In the future it will be lots of different places, doing lots of different experiences; some camping, bush walking and a few new hobbies; or a return to some old ones.
